We Help People Solve Information Problems

14 years of expertise in providing custom software solutions and application development for new and existing solutions. We build databases and create tools to get the most out of them. Our team has built systems that are in use throughout the United States today for more than 2,000 active users. Our company and information systems meet DOD cybersecurity requirements for DFARS, are HIPAA compliant, and are continuously monitored for security surety.

Results. We combine creative ideas with proven analysis methods to design innovative tools that solve information problems. The best evidence of our success is the founding of Derry Software as an organization.

Agility. Speed in delivery is a tremendous advantage for organizations that rely on us for their software solutions. We are a small business that is not tied to any specific product. We are devoted instead to using proven development methods. This focus and organization combination gives us the ability to quickly respond to a wide variety of projects.

Specialization. We work closely with the organization we serve to understand their specific needs, and then we design a user interface that meets customer approval. The database, analysis, and reporting tools we create ensure we provide a comprehensive solution and provide the best user experience possible.

How Can Derry Software Help My Organization

We have a wide range of skills that we apply to solving your specific information problems and opportunities. Our organization structure provides us with the flexibility to approach any project with the same enthusiasm and commitment; from small scale projects to enterprise application software.

Derry Software solves information problems safely, accurately, and in a timely manner.
